SAD44

Director OK'd to run private business in CPS

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board approved a plan Monday that would allow a School Board member to set up a private day-care business in the Crescent Park School -- a plan which had initially been turned down by SAD44 Superintendent of Schools Ronald Jenkins.

The district could not sponsor the plan, Jenkins said, because by state law a School Board director cannot be employed by the district.

Bethel director Deb Dohrmann and CPS Principal David Murphy then pitched the proposal to DeWane Craig, chief administrator of NOVA.

Craig agreed to ask the NOVA

'The laws were created to serve the people. To find a back way in is just not what the board should be doing.'

MARGARET HAND

and SAD44 boards to accept the plan with NOVA acting as the fiscal agent for Dohrmann's proposed Kindergarten Enrichment and Extension Program (KEEP).

The program would be a private enterprise, Craig said. No SAD44, NOVA, state, federal or local tax money would help support it.

KEEP is being billed as an extension of the district's half-day kindergarten program.

Parents would be asked to pay $6 a day, or $30 a week, to enroll in the program. Some scholarships might be available, Craig said.

Students who sign on for the day-care service would participate in several activities similar to traditional kindergarten. It would be open to about 30 students on a first-come, first-serve basis.

After an hour-and-a-half of debate, the SAD44 board approved the plan. Dohrmann stepped down from the board for the discussion and debate. She made no comments on the questions.

A few SAD44 board members objected to various parts of the plan, including, only charging the program $1 rent for its space at CPS, and the issue of parity among the district's schools (a similar program would not be available at Woodstock and Andover Elementary schools). Some directors also questioned whether or not it is ethical or legal to have a School Board member run the program.

Bethel director Jane Rolfe said she liked the idea, but felt $1 rent was not enough to charge a private business.

ROCK REUNION--Henry Lapage of Berlin, N.H. holds two pieces of pebble he found nine years, and a quarter-of-a-mile, apart. Lapage is the manager of Abbott's Anchorage on the shore South Pond.

Woodstock '94 and Bethel '94 battled it out in upstate NY But this story will probably be the only hype our local rock reunion will ever get

By WENDY HANSCOM

Henry Lapage has been camping in Maine since he was a baby, but now he's got a new story to tell around the campfire.

After camping at different sites around the lakes and ponds of Greenwood and Woodstock, the retired Berlin, N.H. millworker has spent the past nine summers at Abbott's Anchorage on the shore of South Pond.

One July day during his first season at Abbott's, Lapage and his wife Muriel were picking raspberries on a new dirt road near the campground.

As he walked along the road, he looked down and noticed a peculiar pebble. It was half of a small rock that had been split open. The stone was smooth and round on one side. The side split from its other half was flat and rough, and two-colored.

But it was the "picture" in the pebble that intrigued Lapage. A tan patch in the middle of the rock was framed by a dark gray exterior.

To Lapage, the tan area looked like a pine tree. So he pocketed it as a reminder of his summers in Maine.

He has carried the pebble around in his pocket for nine years.

But the story doesn't end here.

This summer, Lapage once more returned to Abbott's Anchorage, where he's been the manager for the past eight years. He's also had the same camp spot for the past eight summers.

He was cleaning the interior of his car recently and as he started to get out he noticed something on the ground.

"I had just washed the windshield and the side window," Lapage said, "when I went to get out, my rock was sitting on the ground. I thought to myself 'How'd that get there.' But when I reached into my pocket the rock was still there. I had found the other half."

The half he found at his campsite was at least a quarter of a mile away from where the first piece of stone was found.

"I've always wondered where the other half of that rock was," Lapage said. "But I never bothered to look for it. It would be like looking for a needle in a haystack. We've camped on that spot for eight years. We take the leaves and pine needles every fall."

The rocks are a perfect match. Their designs mirror each other. The halves fit tightly together to make one smooth round pebble.

The new piece is slightly bigger than the first piece, and the original half is slightly darker -- stained by the oil from Lapage's hands.

Lapage now carries both halves in his pocket. And when nightfall settles over Abbott's Anchorage and campers start swapping stories in the firelight, he has a new tale to tell about nine years of carrying around a summer souvenir -- and a bit of dumb luck.

Bethel Station

Public hearing reopens tonight Planning Board vote on Phase 1 likely to come next Wednesday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Tonight (Wednesday, Aug. 10), the Bethel Planning Board will reconvene its public hearing on the Bethel Station site plan application.

This is likely to be the last opportunity for residents to comment formally prior to a final Planning Board vote on the application.

The hearing was begun on July 12, but adjourned pending the board's finding that the conditions for completeness on the application had been satisfied. That finding came at a July 27 meeting.

Following tonight's hearing, the board will again take up the application, but it is not clear if a final vote will come this evening.

"It's possible," said Vogt, "but I think it's more likely to come at next week's special meeting." That meeting, on Wednesday, Aug. 13, will be devoted exclusively to the Bethel Station project.

The vote will be on all of Phase 1, but it will not include the specific plans for any buildings, including the three that might still be built this year -- the train station, Casablanca building and a third building containing retail, office and residential space.

Each of those structures will have to go through its own site plan review. "We'll have a site plan (application) for each of those buildings," Merrill assured the board last week.

"There's a certain uniqueness," to the way the board is handling the approval process, Vogt acknowledged later. But in the end, he said, "each (building) will have to meet the ordinance."

Late but still viable

Merrill said this week that under the best circumstances (quick Planning Board approval and no appeal) it would be at least mid-September before construction would start.

And only two of the four buildings originally planned for construction this summer are now likely to be completed this year, he said: the train station and Casablanca building.

Construction may also be started on the combined retail/office/residential building, Merrill said, but commercial space would not be available for rent until January or February at the earliest.

Plans to construct a 100-room hotel this summer now appear firmly postponed until next year.

Merrill said, however, that developers still hope to complete the majority of the Phase 1 infrastructure work this summer, including most of Parkway Street, Lincoln and Cross streets.

Asked if the $25-million project remains economically viable despite the delays in beginning construction, Merrill replied: "Oh, yes indeed."

Preliminary findings of fact

At its regular meeting last week, the Planning Board continued its review of the project, working its way through 28 approval conditions

Vote set on train station ownership

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen is recommending to voters that the town own the train station in the Bethel Station development.

The board has set a special Town Meeting for Aug. 29, at which voters will discuss and vote on the proposal.

The vote to recommend approval came at a lengthy selectmen's meeting Monday evening. The vote was close, with selectmen John Thurston, Dutch Dresser and Art Gilbert voting to recommend the arrangement; and Bob Chadbourne and Rick Whitney voting against it.

John Thurston made the motion for the recommendation, and he included three major conditions: 1) that a satisfactory alternative site be found for loading agricultural and forestry products, 2) that an acceptable lease-back arrangement to the developers be concluded, and 3) that the town be indemnified by the Maine Department of Transportation against any possible financial liability should the Bethel Station project fail.

Station construction would be funded by federal grant money, but Dresser cautioned developer Heinie Merrill that the arrangement would still be a hard sell unless the details were worked out prior to the Town Meeting vote.

Chadbourne indicated prior to the selectmen's vote that his opposition was based primarily on the loose ends -- especially the lack of an alternative loading site.

He, too, advised Merrill to get the details worked out before the matter goes in front of voters: "If those issues are not resolved, I'll certainly be opposed to it, and I'll be working hard against it," he said.

PAWING THROUGH THE PEAS--Lauretta Thurston and Shana Morin of the West Bethel Children's Center look for full pea pods in the center's garden. The Maine Organic Farmers and Gardeners Association is helping sponsor 11 garden sites in Maine. The project teaches lower-income families and others how to raise their own food. MOFGA members and local volunteers help get the gardens growing. Donations to children's center garden include seedlings from Pooh Corner Farm and tilling by MOFGA-member David Kimball of Rumford Center. The children are raising zucchini, beans, cucumbers, cord pumpkins, lettuce, peas, spinach and more. Once ripe, the vegetables become part of the center's summer menu. Lauretta is the daughter of Patricia Thurston and Leslie Thurston both of West Bethel. Shana is the daughter of Darlene Morin of Bethel.

Union troops to bivouac here

By WENDY HANSCOM

A call to arms, campfire smoke drifting through flapping tents and beef stew simmering over an open flame -- such will be the historical scene this weekend as Union soldiers encamp on the grounds of the Moses Mason House.

About 14 members of the Fourth Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry will set up a Civil War camp Friday as part of the 15th annual Sudbury Canada Days.

During the day Saturday, visitors can stroll through camp and talk to the troops about life during the Civil War.

"We set the camp up as it was then," said volunteer Larry Smith of Wiscasset. "We try to represent life in the 1860s."

The original Fourth Regiment of Maine Volunteers was sworn into federal service on June 15, 1861 at Camp Knox in Rockland.

The first commander of the Fourth was Colonel Hiram G. Berry. He rose to the rank of Maj. General before being killed in the battle of Chancellorsville.

The Fourth was the last regiment to leave the field at the first battle of Bull Run. The regiment also fought at Devil's Den during the battle of Gettysburg.

But it wasn't just fighting men who contributed to the history of the Fourth, women also played an active role.

The living-history exhibit also features several women, who take on the roles of nurses, seamstresses and other camp followers.

The Fourth took along with it three volunteer nurses. In the field

A gazebo for the town common?

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Fuzzy Thurston thinks Bethel should have one. So do his crew of expert volunteers. So does the Mahoosuc Arts Council.

And so do the Bethel selectmen, who voted unanimously Monday to approve the concept.

"I hope this can be a real community project, with people contributing whatever they can, work, expertise, or hard currency," Thurston said.

The gazebo Thurston imagines would be located on the Bethel Inn end of the town common and would serve as a bandstand for the newly formed community band. It would also provide a showcase for attracting other musical groups to Bethel.

Thurston has already lined up a team of skilled volunteers, including architect Rob Whitten of Portland, and builder Tom Remington, electrician Tim Hutchins and attorney Mike O'Donnell of Bethel.

In addition, Carol Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farm has offered to assist with landscaping, and Western Maine Supply Co. has agreed to provide building materials "at the most favorable rates."

Thurston said the next step in the process will be raising the estimated $8,000 to $12,000 needed for those materials.

"We hope to be able to make it tax deductible," he said. "And we'll soon be rounding up all the usual suspects."

LEADING US DOWN THE PATH

To the Editor:

Let's see if I understand all this -- the riverside bike path is what's left of the riverside park which the town was promised last winter before the vote on the town garage, right? (The "free" garage has already cost the town $40,000.) And the developer was supposed to build the bike path. Only now the town is going to ask the federal government for money to build the bike path. But in order to do that, they have to own the bike path. So the developer is going to put 12 acres of land into a conservation easement for the town so the town can do the asking for money. And this is the same land that the developer already told the DEP it would put a conservation easement on in order to facilitate the DEP approvals, right? And this is like the train station, which the developer was going to build too, only now they want the town to own the train station so that the train station can be built with federal money. And the sidewalks which will be included in the request for money, that's like the sidewalk on Railroad Street, which the developer should be paying for anyway under the ordinance because their development is making the sidewalk necessary. But we're supposed to be grateful for all of this because the developer is providing the expertise to do the asking, right? And federal money -- is that anything like the checks you and I write out every April 15th?

Why is the town getting involved in assuming the developer's responsibilities? Who will be liable when the cantilevered bridge over the river, cants? And who is paying the town's attorney to figure all these questions out?

While we're on the subject of hidden costs, the cover story of the latest Maine Times issue, entitled "Live Free Or Shop -- Lessons from North Conway" makes very interesting reading. North Conway of course has more tax rates that you can shake a shopping bag at. But according to the article, in its recently issued Master Plan, the town itself evaluated the vacation home and retail development of the '80s as translating into a negative fiscal impact for the town over a ten-year period. Besides a tax rate that is substantially higher now than when the boom began, the article also describes the social costs of a low wage, service oriented economy, transient population, and the lack of decent jobs for college-educated young people. And the infamous traffic.

As this article clearly shows, the real issue for Bethel, one that cannot be obscured by pretty pictures of pseudo-Victorian architecture, is: How big? How fast? As I understand it, what is being proposed for construction this year in the project area is significantly less than Phases I and II as originally proposed. If the Planning Board is inclined to approve, they should limit approval to what's actually being proposed for immediate construction. Once Phase IA is up and running, we will be in a better position to judge what the impact of additional development is likely to be -- not only additional development in the project area but development outside the project area which is bound to follow in proportion. We can always go forward. Once the flood gates really open, there is no going back.

auditorium for her recitals. Rolfe said, and Arla Patch of Woodstock has paid rent to run private art classes in the district.

Murphy replied that he was committed to running a "community school" that offered a wide variety of services to the public. Dohrmann's proposal, he said, may be the first of other private enterprises proposed for the school.

Local businesses, for example, might use CPS's computers to train their employees, according to Murphy.

Woodstock director T.L. Magee said the program was probably a good idea, but he objected to WES and AES kindergarten students not having a chance to participate.

"In light of the recent MEA scores, where one school (Woodstock) did poorly across the board," Magee said, "I think a program like this might be best placed there."

But WES and AES might not have enough students to support a private day-care program, Craig said.

Is it legal?

In regard to the legality of having Dohrmann run the program, Superintendent Jenkins said that the district could not sponsor KEEP if a School Board member was involved.

The district's attorney, however, said if NOVA sponsored the program, Dohrmann could run it and stay on the board, Jenkins said.

"The reason I'm here," Craig said, "is that you people had a problem that couldn't be resolved with the legal, moral, and ethical standards of the state of Maine."

"That's the only reason I'm here. Because it sure isn't making my life easier and we're not going to get anything for NOVA if you're looking at it from a fiscal standpoint. The only reason I'm here is because somebody in this community, Bethel, had the entrepreneurial skills to say 'I've got an idea and I want to make it.' That's how NOVA got involved."

But Board Chairman Margaret Hand said regardless of who was sponsoring the program, she objected to a School Board member being involved with it.

"There's a state law that says that board members cannot take a position that they created or was created while they were on the board, or for a year afterward," Hand said. "That's where my problem is. My problem is not with the people involved... I have a problem that this was not put out to bid... I certainly have a problem when it appears that somebody's coming in the back door to try and circumvent a law of the state of Maine. Do I have a problem about the program, no. Do I have a problem about who's running the program, no. But the laws were created to serve the people. To find a back way in is just not what the board should be doing."

Hand, who is a member of the NOVA board, said she would also oppose the plan at Tuesday's NOVA board meeting.

NOVA has yet to approve the plan.

Other business

At Monday's meeting, the board also approved Peter Kuzyk as the district's new computer technology technician.

Kuzyk will be responsible for the set up and management of all the district's computer systems.

He will also help train district employees on the systems.

The board also rehired Tony Robertson as computer systems operator/data processor at Telstar. Alan Hale and Hugh Chapman were approved as SAD44 custodial workers.

Disposal prospects pondered

By WENDY HANSCOM

A million-plus tires and what to do with them.

That was the question at last week's meeting between Susan Gordon, state legislators, and Greenwood selectmen and Planning Board members.

The group seemed to lean toward working with the Gordons to find an alternative to just stacking and storing the tires on the Rabbit Road.

But some town officials and state Rep. Rick Bennett appeared reluctant to invest a lot of time or money in helping the Gordons run their business.

Susan Gordon, the tire dump's co-owner, said she's trying to reduce the piles, but admitted she has little time, or expertise, to search out new markets for the old rubber.

Bennett said he was worried that no matter what anyone tried to do, the business might still be a losing proposition.

"One of the crucial elements is whether or not the business is viable or not," Bennett said. "It seems like the state wanted to relieve itself of the expense of cleaning tires up in an unorganized territory (Albany, from where the Gordons moved between 60,000 and 80,000 to Greenwood). . . . The only way you can stay afloat is to bring the tires in. But something's got to give eventually. I'm surprised the DEP would let it go on this long. You've just gotten yourself in deeper and deeper."

Gordon told Bennett she feels the business is viable, if she could hook up with the right markets.

Those markets include shredded tires for burning and road construction, she said, and shipping usable tires overseas.

Gordon and her husband, Peter, have considered purchasing a shredder, she said, but have had liability problems.

Anyone who loans money to the operation, she said, may be held financially responsible for any negative impact the facility might have on the environment.

"The DEP has told us that if we don't make an effort to recycle they'll shut us down and they probably would," Gordon said. "It's either take the tires in or close down."

SCIENCE MATTERS

TIRE TRAP

The United States moves on wheels -- covered by tires. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates Americans throw out 250 million tires a year. They end up on roadsides and in landfills. Some get recycled into other uses.

WHY DISCARDED TIRES ARE A PROBLEM:

WHAT TO DO:

LANDFILLS: Tires must be ground up before they go to a landfill. Whole tires capture gas and squeeze up, breaking through the clay used to cap the landfill.

USE AS FUEL:

Tires contain the equivalent of 2-1/2 gallons of petroleum, give off twice the heat at less cost and burn cleaner than coal. But they release toxic pollutants -- heavy metals, arsenic and dioxins. They are not widely used for fuel in power plants because of high equipment costs, but scrap is used at cement kilns and pulp mills.

RECYCLE INTO ROADS:

Tires can be ground up and mixed with asphalt to pave roads. The 1991 transportation bill requires states to use rubberized asphalt in 5% of federally subsidized road projects this year, 20% by 1997.

RECYCLING

Efforts to recycle tires are paying off. Percent of used tires recycled:

HOW MANY TIRES?

If you took 250 million tires:

- Lined upright, side by side, it would circle the globe once.
- Lined end-to-end, they would be four deep around the equator.
- In all, between 1.5 and 3 billion tires litter roadsides, dumps and vacant lots.

SOURCES: The Associated Press; Compton's Encyclopedia; World Book Encyclopedia; Audubon, Nov.-Dec. 1993; Conservationist, Feb.-March 1990; Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.; Scrap Tire Management Council.

RUBBERIZED ASPHALT

PROPOSERS SAY:

- Increases road's elasticity, resulting in fewer cracks, ruts and potholes.
- Lasts longer than conventional asphalt
- Improves traction
- Dampens highway noise

OPPONENTS SAY:

- It can't be recycled.
- Longevity is doubtful under certain conditions
- It is 50% to 100% more expensive than conventional asphalt. Advocates say it can be put down at half the thickness of regular asphalt, increasing its cost effectiveness.

OTHER WAYS TO RECYCLE TIRES

- Cut strips to use in shoe soles.
- Weld into mats for erosion control or temporary roads.
- Bales of compressed tires support a golf course and create its drainage system.
- Crumbled rubber becomes part of hockey pucks, horse racing tracks, NCAA tracks.
- Use as bed for railroad crossings

PARTS OF A TIRE

WHAT ARE TIRES MADE OF:

Tires are mostly made of rubber, a product obtained from latex, the secretion of certain plants. Tires account for 60% to 70% of all rubber used today. Here is the basic makeup of a typical passenger tire, which weighs about 21 pounds:

Synthetic rubber	5.5 pounds
Natural rubber	4.5 pounds
Carbon black	5.0 pounds
Steel cord	1.5 pounds
Polyester and nylon	1.0 pound
Bead wire	1.0 pound
Chemicals, waxes, oil and pigments	3.0 pounds

DID YOU KNOW?

In the 1860s, the British government conceived the idea of transporting rubber trees from South America to British colonies in Asia to grow on organized plantations. Today, Asia produces 90 percent of natural rubber. It all comes from trees that are descendants from Brazil.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

Genetta McLean, director of the Bates College Museum of Art, was the featured speaker at the August meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House Thursday evening. Her topic was the Lewiston artist Delbert Dana Coombs and his work.

Coombs was born in Lisbon Falls in 1850 and lived until 1938, dying at the age of 88. His father, William G. Coombs (1822-1898) was a blacksmith, born in Bowdoin; his mother was Clarinda Kinsley Coombs of Auburn. When their son Delbert was two years old, the family moved from Lisbon Falls to New Gloucester. Around 1871, the family moved again, this time to Preble Street in Portland. About two years later, they settled in Auburn, establishing a blacksmith shop on Miller Street.

At the age of 12, Coombs developed rheumatic fever, which left him in a relatively frail condition for the remainder of his life. As a consequence, young Delbert was excused from becoming a blacksmith like his father and was encouraged to adopt a more sedentary occupation. Drawing became the means by which he entertained himself as a child, and soon he developed a respectable aptitude for it.

Coombs' formal training began in 1869 at the age of 19 according to his record book. Among his teachers were the well-known artist Harrison Bird Brown of Portland and Scott Leighton of Boston. Coombs recalled that Leighton was an inspiration for him and started him on the road to animal painting. His favorite animal to paint was the horse, although cattle appear more frequently. Coombs also had a penchant for dogs. In fact, he was once commissioned to travel to Connecticut to paint the portraits of some finely bred St. Bernards, for which he received $100.

Coombs continued his art education after studying with Brown and Leighton. He took life classes at the Boston Art School for a brief period and then studied with Albion Harris Bicknell, a Boston portrait painter who was born in Turner and Benjamin Champney, the famous White Mountain painter.

After his initial apprenticeship with Brown in 1870, Coombs moved to Lewiston and opened a studio. Discouraged by the lack of interest in his work, he stayed only one winter before joining his father in Portland. There he ran a photography business with James M. Lamson for a short time, before returning to Lewiston to open a sign painting business. He later wrote, "After trying business a while I again settled down in Lewiston and Auburn to be an artist without regard to money making."

The "Record Book" lists 723 paintings in oil and watercolor made between 1869 and 1929.

Coombs' painting of Bethel's Kendall's Ferry, done in 1915, was on display during the evening through the courtesy of Society member Annie Hastings.

During the business portion of the meeting, society vice president Walter Hatch announced that the next meeting would be the annual one. A Nominating Committee consisting of Arlene Lowell and Kenneth Bohr representing the general membership and Margaret Joy Tibbels the board of trustees was elected.

AT THE Mason
House

Clean, director of the Museum of Art, was speaker at the August 10th Bethel Historical Society meeting in the meeting room of the Mason House. Her topic was the artist Delbert Dana.

was born in Lisbon Falls, lived until 1938, dying in 1988. His father, William (1822-1898) was a blacksmith in Bowdoin; his mother, Clara Kinsley, was a blacksmith in Bowdoin. When their son was two years old, the family moved to Lisbon Falls. Around 1871, the family moved again, this time to Portland. About 1875, they settled in Portland, where he was employed as a blacksmith.

of 12, Coombs developed a fever, which left him in a frail condition. As a young Delbert was becoming a blacksmith, his father was employed as a more sedentary drawing became the family's main source of income. He was employed in the mill, and soon he developed a habit of drinking.

Normal training began in 1871, according to the book. Among his friends was the well-known artist John Brown of Portland. Leighton of Boston, called that Leighton was on for him and started to paint animal paintings. animal to paint was the family's main source of income. Coombs also had a pen. In fact, he was once employed to travel to Compton's portrait of St. Bernards, for $100.

Technica: no more pooch in boots

LOS ANGELES--A Los Angeles Superior Court Judge issued an injunction last week against a ski equipment company based in New Hampshire banning the sale of after-ski boots containing dog fur. Technica based in Lebanon, N.H. agreed last week to stop using the fur and pay $24,750 to settle a lawsuit filed by Los Angeles city and county prosecutors. The lawsuit claimed the company was violating California's law prohibiting the importation, possession, sale or purchase of cat or dog pelts. The boots have been sold for $350 a pair in about 60 stores across the U.S.

Ski area employees earn bonuses

NEWRY--The Sunday River Skiway Corporation distributed annual bonuses last week for a tenth consecutive year. Record growth and annual bonuses have become a tradition at Sunday River, according to resort owner Leslie B. Otten. The success of the company can be traced directly to the efforts of the staff, Otten said. Bonuses equal to four percent of the annual wage were distributed to all full-time year-round employees. Two-percent bonuses were distributed to full-time seasonal employees.

Greenwood taxes rise

GREENWOOD--The tax rate here this year will go up from 13.8 mills to at least 16.6 mills, according to Greenwood's assessing agent John O'Donnell. Selectmen were supposed to set the mill rate at last night's selectmen's meeting, and tax bills should go out on Aug. 15. An increase in the town's SAD44 assessment pushed the mill rate up, according to selectmen.

Shavings fire at P.H. Chadbourne's

BETHEL--About 50 Bethel, Newry and Greenwood firefighters soaked down shavings smoldering Thursday evening in a large P.H. Chadbourne building. Firemen responding to the report of a structure fire found smoke but no flames. Firemen were at the scene most of the night pouring water on the shavings. A damage estimate was not available. Chadbourne's planer mill has been shut down since the fire. Repairs to the shavings' building should be finished today, according to owner Bob Chadbourne, and the mill should restart.

Woodstock crash injures two

WOODSTOCK--A two-car collision on Route 26 last week injured two people. Julie Warren of Oxford was traveling north on Route 26 when a car driven by Robert Remsen of Bryant Pond went through the stop sign on the Twitchell Road before entering Route 26, according to police. Remsen's car struck the front passenger side of Warren's vehicle. Police said Remsen told them his car had a mechanical problem which prevented him from stopping at the intersection. Warren and her passenger Robert Taylor were transported to Stephens Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Man pleads guilty to painting woman

CLAREMONT, N.H.--A 19-year-old Newport, N.H. man will spend six months in jail and two years on probation for cutting off the hair of a passed-out 18-year-old girl. The man also pleaded guilty to covering her body with paint, cleaning fluids and other materials, before leaving the girl unconscious on a fire escape. He pled guilty to two counts of simple assault and one count of reckless endangerment. Another two men and a woman will face similar charges in the same incident later this month.

Landfill bidding pulled for poor specs

ANDOVER--Selectmen called off opening bids last week for the covering of the town's landfill. The bids were returned to Andover contractors, two of whom questioned the lack of exact specs in the bid package. Selectmen will make the specs more detailed before putting the job out to bid again.

Man charged for shooting at burglars

NASHUA, N.H.--A Hudson, N.H. man faces charges for reckless conduct for shooting at four burglars fleeing from his home. The man admitted he shot twice to scare off the men. New Hampshire law allows for deadly force against attackers on personal property, but Richard Turcotte, 31, was charged because the burglars were running away and he could have endangered passersby, police said.

Deputy goes eye-to-eye with bear

STRONG--A Franklin County Sheriff's Department Detective found himself up close and personal last week with a huge bear. Detective Niles Yeaton heard a commotion outside his house and went to check out "a lot of thrashing around." He went to his glass-enclosed dining area and looked out at a bird feeder a few feet from the house. "I was looking eyeball-to-eyeball with the biggest bear I had ever seen," Yeaton said. His wife tried to scare the bear into leaving by speaking to it. Yeaton said, but instead the bear lunged at the glass window. Meanwhile, a second bear showed up. The bears had swatted a bird feeder off a six foot pole. Growling dogs eventually scared the bear off. Yeaton said the larger of the two bears probably weighed between 350 and 400 pounds. Earlier in the summer, a bear tore holes in the lining of Yeaton's swimming pool after raiding the bird feeder.

From the Bethel Police log:

Rock throwers damage cars; several thefts and break-ins

On Aug. 5 at 11:07 p.m., the Gorham Police Department asked Bethel police to be on the look out for a vehicle headed toward Bethel. While driving on Route 26, the occupants of the vehicle had thrown rocks at cars in Gorham and Shelburne, N.H., Gorham police said. Eight minutes later, police received a report that a Quebec vehicle had been hit by a large rock from a passing car on Robinson Hill. Damage to the Quebec vehicle's grill, radiator and engine was estimated at $3,000. The vehicle was towed to a local garage. Rumford police later reported that rocks were thrown at a car in Rumford and five similar reports were logged in Canton.

Police are also investigating four recent thefts and burglaries. On Aug. 2, a South Bethel resident reported that her trailer had been broken into. Burglars got in through a bathroom window. Baseball cards and a hunting knife were missing. The bathroom toilet seat was also broken. Damage and the value of the missing items was estimated at $50.

On Aug. 4, an East Bethel man reported the theft of a $636 chainsaw from his pickup truck. The truck was parked in the man's driveway. On Aug. 4, a Middle Intervale resident reported her home had been burglarized. The police report said thieves looked through the home's drawers and closets, but left several valuable items. One hundred dollars in cash was missing from a desk drawer. While at the scene, police noted that the house next door had also been broken into. The house appeared to have been gone through, but nothing was missing, according to the report.

In other police news last week, on Aug. 2, police responded to a domestic dispute on the East Bethel Road.

On Aug. 3, a set of keys found at the Newt's Landing on the Androscoggin River was turned in to police.

On Aug. 4, six subjects were involved in a scuffle at the Sudbury Inn. No assault charges were filed. The report said the inn will bar the men from the establishment.

On Aug. 5, the Sunday River Brewery reported four subjects had left the bar without paying their $80 tab. Police stopped the subjects' vehicle. The occupants said it was a simple mix-up, and returned to pay the bill.

Tire Dump

We'd like to get into shredding, but I don't want to shred them and have no market for them."

The DEP has asked the Gordons to work on a plan to get the tires off the Rabbit Road. Susan Gordon agreed to submit that plan to the town.

She also accepted the offer of Greg Herrick, consultant for the Evans Notch Economic Project, to help her link up with the Department of Economic and Community Development. The DECD has helped other businesses find international markets, Herrick told the group.

"I did find out there are tire markets in Saudi Arabia and Africa," Herrick said Monday. "My next step is to find out who distributes them. It's going to be a lengthy task. All I can do is try and provide information. I'm not sure what I can do, but I'm going to try to do what I can to assist. There's a market for everything everywhere, but the problem is quality, quantity and how to get the stuff there."

Herrick will also try to get Gordon in touch with people who can take a look at the company's books and help her evaluate the business, he said, possibly a volunteer group like the Senior Corp of Retired Executives (SCORE).

Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley said area towns and the Gordons could work together to help recycle the tires or find a marketing plan. With local towns signed on to help, she said, grant money from recycling and solid waste agencies might be available.

Henley's proposal was met with lukewarm enthusiasm. Greenwood officials didn't seem quite ready to assume responsibility of helping the Gordons get rid of the tires.

"The town is willing to help," said selectman Marie Bartlett, "but we still think DEP should have had all the mechanics in place before the license was issued. That would have helped both the town and the Gordons if they had handled this correctly in the beginning."

Rehashing history

DEP officials were invited to the proposed by the town's engineering consultant.

Hearing

The board members appeared satisfied that the developers had met, or would meet, most of the conditions -- which dealt with items ranging from railroad right of ways to utility needs and erosion control.

The board rejected some of the proposed conditions as being beyond its authority, but reserved the right to add further conditions should additional information indicate a need.

The board concluded by conducting what Vogt termed "a preliminary run-through" of the findings-of-fact portion of the application process.

The run-through revealed no serious obstacles to eventual board approval of the project.

Air Service advisory

Tonight's hearing will begin at 7 p.m. in the Telstar auditorium. Beforehand, at 6 p.m., the board will meet to discuss an advisory opinion regarding a proposal by Bethel Air Service to install fuel tanks at the Col. Dyke Airport.

Andover

Tax vote preparations underway

By BARBARA ADAMS

Andover town clerk Phyllis Spaulding announced last week that absentee ballots for the Sept. 10 special Town Meeting are now available at the town office.

Spaulding noted that she is willing to go out to anyone who is unable to go to the town office in person. "I will go anywhere so someone can vote," Spaulding said. Those wishing this service should call the town office at 392-3302.

A 1985 town vote decreed that COMSAT monies be totally reinvested and the interest handled as meeting, but didn't show up. Their absence was just one more complaint to add to a long list of Greenwood's gripes with the agency.

"What we have a problem with is the double standard," said selectman Marie Bartlett. "We're not here to bash the Peter Gordon tire facility. We're here to talk about the DEP and the hoops they made the town jump through compared to the tire facility. We have under 200 tires at the stump dump and we had to buy a truck body to store them up off the ground. We were never issued a license for our stump dump, but they say to the Gordons 'Here's your license, come into compliance.' I feel that's a little strange."

Bennett, state Sen. Dana Hanley and other town officials agreed.

"If there is some reason for it all," Bennett said, "it's because people thought it was easier to push off a problem rather than deal with it, and make a decision which proved to be the wrong one. I would continue to push the DEP -- the Department of Economic Persecution. I don't know what kind of stick to use. Dana and I have both tried to bring more accountability to the DEP through legislation. We've tried personal beration, discussions with the governor and every method open to a legislator. Unfortunately we're going to have to try and solve this problem locally."

Planning board member Heywood Sawyer said it may be a problem that's very hard to solve.

"All that has gone on and hasn't gone on is so bizarre that it defies intelligent analysis," Sawyer said. "There's no logic in why what happened happened."

Hanley said he was willing to continue trying to get the state involved.

He and Bennett will try to pressure Al Prysunka of the DEP Hazardous Material and Solid Waste Control Division to come to the group's next meeting.

The group plans another meeting for September, and also plans to set a timetable to determine if their efforts to address the problem are making any headway.

follows: 25 percent put back into principal, and 75 percent to be used to reduce the mill rate. The September article would change this arrangement, asking if the town shall appropriate from the COMSAT investment fund the amount of $200,000 of principal to reduce the 1994 tax commitment. This would leave a principal of approximately $683,000 in the COMSAT account.

The selectmen have stressed that this referendum vote on Article 4 can only be carried by a vote of two-thirds of the registered voters in the town, so it is vital that voters turn out on Sept. 10, or file an absentee ballot.

Another article will see if the town will authorize the municipal officers to use the funds appropriated at the March 5 Town Meeting for MCI litigation in the amount of $50,000 in order to reduce the 1994 tax commitment.

If the secret ballot referendum and this article are not approved, the selectmen said, the alternative means a mill rate of approximately $18.6 per thousand valuation, or a 50-percent increase in property taxes.

Sunday River has approval for new Jordan Bowl route

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Newry Planning Board approved Sunday River Ski Resort's proposal to construct a ski road through the Mountain View Acres Subdivision into Jordan Bowl.

The resort agreed to upgrade part of the Sunday River Road before opening the "Jordan Bowl Access Road Kendall Option" road to the public.

"We agreed that if that option was used, the ski area would not open the road to the general public until an upgrade has taken place on the valley road (Sunday River Road) from the corner of the Linda Harrington property to the Monkey Brook Road junction," said Burt Mills, mountain manager.

The board also agreed that the town's Code Enforcement Officer can approve grade modifications on the road without the Planning Board's approval. But changes in the road's alignment or any other feature of the project would have to go back before the board.

This is the second Planning Board approval the ski area has for a route into new ski trails in Jordan Bowl. The resort is still investigating all its options, Mills said, and no timetable for road construction has been set. Mills declined to comment on whether the resort was still negotiating with Susan Hamill for a right-of-way across her land near the resort's South Ridge development area.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Aug. 1, for music and talent night, with over 30 present. This was an open meeting. The Bible was opened and the flag presented. The program by Anna Swan was as follows: Lucy Ridley played a music box and her 16-month-old great-grandson danced around. Then three young girls did a Hawaiian dance. Then they played harmonicas, and so did the little boy; Bertha Benoit sang a couple of songs; Althea Fish played a couple piano solos; Skit by Joe, Peggy, Richard and Laura; Harry Boyer sang a couple songs; quiz by Anna; Louis Woodworth sang a couple songs; Dot Canwell whistled a couple tunes; skit by Harry Boyer and Loretta Hall; Laura Hutchins played her accordion; game by several people; music by Grange band; happy birthday sung to all August birthdays; closing thought by Anna Swan. The next meeting will be Gentlemen's Night on Aug. 15.

The Historical Society studies such cultural subjects as literature, art, music, and philosophy as well as history. It preserves exhibits and information important to our community. The historical museum houses antiques, a small research library, and many items relating to our area.

The next meeting of the Historical Society will be a picnic at Ruth Cox's on Aug. 13.

At the society parking lot there will be a sale and flea market on Saturday, Aug. 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Members of the society are in charge of this sale, which will include a large variety of items.

Joseph and Maggie Hoyt spent the week with their dad James Hoyt and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt.

Ruth Dunham and Bessie House visited their daughter and sister Alberta Scribner one day this past week.

Ellsworth and Joyce Hathaway, Debra Millett, and Elaine Newell have been callers of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway.

Marjorie B. Menzies of Newry and Wellesley, Mass., recently completed a six-week stay with her daughter Cindy Freeman in Pleasanton, Calif. While there she had the chance to be with four of her grandsons: Steve Tibbetts of Hayward, Calif.; Christopher Tibbetts of Oakland, Calif.; Joel Tibbetts of Anchorage, Alaska; and Albert J. Costa of San Francisco, Calif. She also traveled to Fresno, Calif., to see her son Mark and Ann Freeman. She enjoyed a Boston Red Sox-Oakland A's baseball game and the Pleasanton Centennial Celebration.

The Hunter families from Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut spent a weekend with relatives recently. A cookout was enjoyed with Sylvia and Bill Wight Saturday evening, July 30, here in North Newry.

A service was performed at the Newry Community Church on Sunday, July 31, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "How like God is Man?" from Scriptures: Genesis 1:1-8; James 3:9-18; and St. Matthew 25:31-46.

Five members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson. Rena Powers and Jim Anderson were guests. On the overall scores, Betsy was high AGAIN on the triples beating Karlene by only two pins. Close behind was Gil with a high score on the singles beating Betsy by two pins, and only four pins behind her on the triples. Betsy had two spares, Karlene had five spares, Gil had five spares and Doris had one spare.

Karlene Bachelder and Yours Truly took to the road one day last week (Saturday, July 30) and landed in New Vineyard at the L.A. Memorial Building to help celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Jean and Harry Ellis, who happen to be Ras Bachelder's cousins. There were about 50 or so friends and relatives counting the children. Videos were taken, also other snapshots. The couple received many gifts in money, etc. A delicious buffet was available and an anniversary cake was cut and enjoyed. We wish them future happiness.

I seem to be able to get news in about every other week. Most of the week before last I was spending time trying to get a car on the road. I purchased a Dodge Aspen from Josie Greenwood in Gilead, and although it was in pretty good shape it had been put up for a couple years, so there are always things that need to be done. Being put on the shelf does as much to cars as it seems to do to humans. Gerry Shimamura kindly loaned me her station wagon so I was able to take Josie to Berlin on Friday to see her doctor. The next Tuesday, Gerry took the van and we went to Norway, as both of us had some business to transact.

Last Friday, Debbie Brown took me to Rumney, N.H., to pick up Kim Brown who had been going to camp there. We also had a chance to see and talk to Julie Ludlam from Enosburg, Vt., who used to live in East Bethel. In the afternoon, Owen, Debbie, Kim and Allan Brown were headed for the Salt of the Earth Christian Fair in Litchfield and kindly asked me to go along. We had a very good time seeing all the exhibits and things for sale. Debbie and I were both presented with T-shirts by Kim and Allan, and we all enjoyed the music under the tent. In view of subsequent happenings there, I have to admit I was glad we were there Friday and not Saturday. Since the news was sketchy Saturday night, I was more than a little concerned because there are so many little ones there. It has always been a great place to take children because there are guards at every gate and I couldn't figure out how something could go on like that at the fairgrounds. As it turned out, of course, it happened outside.

Anyhow, Friday after we left the fair we went to L.L. Bean's in Freeport. I had never been there and was fascinated by their trout pond. One big trout would have liked to make a meal of a smaller one, but the smaller one was too quick for it. I couldn't believe how wide that trout could open its mouth, though.

Effie Ann Marston, Portland, and Wendie Gunther of Steward, Okla., were guests of Florence Hall. Both of them will be entering their third year at the University of Oklahoma next week.

Gertrude Hutchins went on the bus to Rumford on Wednesday. Nephew Louis Hall took Aunt Florence shopping on Monday. Lillian Williams celebrated a birthday on Aug. 5.

Thought of the day: Charm consists of laughing easily, listening intently, caring deeply and helping frequently.

It was nearly midnight when we got into Lockes. I, for one, had had quite a day.

Cindy Lord and Joe Gross have bought Roland Walker's property on Route 26 and will be moving there shortly. We will miss them here in the neighborhood. They have been good neighbors. I, for one, will miss Frisky. I have always looked after him when they went on vacation, and it has just been the last few years he has been willing to come to me. It took him a long time to forget I once had to take him to the veterinarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ryan, Ben and Nick, have been spending their vacation at the vacation home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Val Greene. Since I don't get to see the boys more than a couple times a year, it's like when did they stop being babies, or toddlers?

I made a mistake on the time the events start at Praise Assembly of God's homecoming. I thought the barbecue was to be at noon. Instead it is the evening meal. Events start at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 13, at the church on the East Rumford Road. The barbecue will be at 5 p.m. Also, Sunday we have worship at 9:30 a.m., not workshops as previously reported. I shall have to write more clearly or get a typewriter that works.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out to help at a fire at Chadbourne's mill. As dry as it has been it's been a miracle there has not been more fires.

Mrs. Jean Tabor of East Bethel and Mrs. Marna McGinniss have put flowers around the sign and pole by the East Bethel Road where it meets Route 26. Nice.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

On Aug. 13, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., there will be a yard sale and bake sale at the North Waterford Church.

Paul Taylor has been visiting and working at the home of Gladys Kilgore a few days this week. Gladys and I went to Hilltop Hairdos today, trying to shorten our hair and keep cool. Carolyn has a sign that says she's a beautician not a magician, but she does a good job on us. The dog "Asta" went to have her hair done today, too (a flea bath). If it isn't one thing it's another, first ticks, then hot weather, and now fleas. It's hard work to keep ahead of everything. I did get ahead of the ants at the hummingbird feeder, though. I wound some mailing sticky tape around the string that comes from the line to the feeder with the sticky side out, and, so far, I have noticed that it works. We have about four or five little, dainty, pretty hummingbirds out there. They are a pleasure to watch. You know, they are the only birds that can fly backwards.

Helen Havista from Florida has been staying with her brother and wife, Walter and Carolyn Heino this past week.

The state crew has been working on the road by here yesterday and today. No sleeping in this morning with all that machinery noise out front.

Not much news this week, as I've been in staying cool under the ceiling fan and haven't gotten out much. I must get this in the mail and a pie to the church supper here, and I'm running a little late on both. Till next time -- keep cool.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

This month starts that time of the year when we begin enjoying the fruits of our labors from the garden. There is nothing so tasty as those garden vegetables, freshly picked, and prepared from the garden straight to the table. It's because you can't buy anything fresher than that. Last week we enjoyed new potatoes, cukes and string beans. The beans were freshly picked, snapped and went straight to the pot and, at the last few minutes of cooking, the red and white potatoes were scrubbed and left with their skins on and went straight into the pot also. Accompanied by a garden-fresh, crisp cucumber and freshly picked lettuce this was a meal fit for a king, and we didn't miss all those additives, or meat to go with it either. For fruits we have the ruby red raspberries, warm and juicy from the sun and accompanied by the dainty blue of the washed and picked-over blueberries, you had all the fiber and enjoyed it to boot.

A kind neighbor called to say we could have some Lodi apples (like early transparents) if we would come and pick them up. This we did -- and this was our only sin, for they were freshly peeled upon returning home and found their way between two pie crusts with all the fixings. Warm apple pie with a small dollop of vanilla ice cream as an early evening snack -- (a "no-no" and sinful one, too, but who can resist a small temptation now and then?) -- oops -- wouldn't blueberry muffins be good for tomorrow morning's breakfast! Anyway, we in Maine know what it's all about, so enjoy the harvest, folks -- we sure have earned it. Happy picking, cooking, eating, freezing and canning (but not necessarily in that order). God Bless and Keep.

On the late afternoon of July 30 I was pleasantly surprised with a visit from my youngest, Sandra Dean of Norway. She invited me to motor with her to the cemetery in Bryant Pond to view the beautiful plants she had planted on our lot there. On the way home she stopped at Breaux's and bought Italians for our evening lunch. We were in the middle of lunch when I looked out and saw my oldest daughter Debby drive in carrying a family-sized pizza from Pizza Hut. Talk about your surprises -- a mini family reunion for all to enjoy.

Lisa Thurston and Peggy and Ed Rice held a yard sale here on the 31st.

We noticed on the 31st that trucks were hauling loam to grade off the back of the Freedom Square apartments, making a nice even lawn out back.

Audrey Franklin entertained Mitch and Jane Mitrowski of Hartford, Conn., the last weekend in July.

Edna Dupont entertained the residents of St. Vincents de Paul Nursing Home in Berlin, N.H., at a cookout at her home here on the 27th of July. Those attending were Alma Sweeney, Yvonne Polquin, Mary Pond, Elaine Gregoire, Maria Montmone, Bernadette Gagne, Mrs. Laroche, Irene Roy, Anita Barnett, who is in charge of activities with her two helpers, Susan Poisson and Candy O'Neil, assisted Edna in entertainment. A nice luncheon consisted of hamburgers and hot dogs on the grill, potato salad with chips, rhubarb squares, fresh raspberries with vanilla ice cream. Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely and are still talking about it to everyone. At a later date, Edna will be entertaining the gentlemen of the home. Will keep you posted.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Patenaude, Jr. of Marathon, Fla., are spending the summer at their home in Gilead.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This is August 1 and a warm afternoon is nearing its close here at the foot of Noyes Mountain. I sat out in my lawn swing for awhile and enjoyed the breeze.

Clouds drifted like smoke above the ridges beyond the pond, while the ducks swam in quacking conversation. The little ones hollering to high heaven for mama, skittering across the water to the shelter of the weeds.

I have just come inside for the sun crested the tree tops; dropping its brilliance on the swing. No more sun for me for awhile, at least until my face heals. I've had a struggle with it.

Living as I do in country surroundings -- woods, lawns, and water -- I can look out and continually see things of interest. At times I note occurrences which I haven't noticed before among the animals and the birds. Today I heard the thump of something against my cellar window, a squirrel fighting a phantom rival.

Another time I heard a loud crackling sound, six purple finches eating seeds and pushing each other on my bird feeder. How happy they were!

The goldenrod is here and if it were not wild it would be expensive but it's free picking, so it is not admired. It reminds us so much of the passing of summer.

Summer days hold jewels that sparkle with rare light of rainbow flowers in daytime, and polished stars at night.

The Rev. Harold King and wife of Rio Hondo, Texas, were guests of the Betts for a couple of days recently and enjoyed a tour of Mt. Washington. King was a shipmate of John's during WWII.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and daughter were at the farm on Sunday. They live in Windsor. David Holt and daughter were there from Norway, and Ann and I joined in the party fun, for it was the birthday of Robert and daughter, Jennett. Sally was ill.

It has been a difficult month for getting hay but the men keep trying. The Innans have been camping a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts were in Portland one day this week to see his surgeon.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

Andrew and Cheryl Scholl, Kirby and Caroline of Cranbury, N.J., are spending this week with her mother, Sally Doughty.

Vicky Sanborn, Brant and Caroline spent the weekend with her parents, Vernon and Miriam Inman.

Gregg and Dixie Inman, Audrey and Abby were in Southbridge, Mass., last weekend guests of Ron and Arlene Plouffe.

Dixie Inman and girls and Diane Komulainen were camping recently at Winslow Memorial Park in Freeport. From there Abby attended basketball camp in South Portland.

Audrey Inman spent last week at the Conservation Camp in Bryant Pond. She enjoyed it very much.

West Paris Historical Society will meet on Monday, Aug. 15, for a potluck supper with Cynthia Lamb and Lempi Cyr on the committee. There will be a work session upstairs for the men.

No. Woodstock

By SHANE BILLINGS

Last night, I received a visit from my friend Lisa Haines. We had a nice conversation and listened to her new CDs.

Sterling and Irene Mills took Jason and Bridget Billings on a camping trip to Hampton Beach and Beaver Hollow Campground in New Hampshire. They had a fun time, especially swimming in the ocean.

Mandy McInnis has a job at the Bryant Pond Conservation School as a lifeguard. Lori Davis also has a job, washing dishes at Mother's restaurant.

Louise Chapman is home from out West, where she was visiting her daughters. Her ride to Alison's home in Washington was beautiful, and she had a wonderful time with Sarah in California. While in California, the three Chapman ladies celebrated Alison's birthday. Louise says the whole trip was excellent.

Sue and Tony Silver recently purchased a new word processor. That's all the news from North Woodstock this week.

field near their home. Margie made plenty of pies and other goodies for everyone to enjoy. The food everyone brought was a nice variety. I always enjoy eating someone else's cooking whenever I can. Those attending were hosts Margie and Bob Gleason, Goldie and Jim Mason, Jerrold and Tracy Mason, Muriel Knightly, Dickie Tyler, Peter and Linda Demarest, June and Don Demarest, Bob and Polly Croteau, Tommy Poland, Joan Cannuli, Pam Mason, Carla and Emily Phillips, Iwina and Monte Smith and myself. Several children were there also. A good time was had by all. Even though we all live close to one another we never get to visit and see what everyone looks like.

Richard Wing is taking over for Jeff Littlehale at the MDOT camp in Bethel for the next two weeks. Jeff will be on vacation. Richard had most of this week off for a short vacation.

Roy Cox was taken ill recently and was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Togus. I haven't heard how he is doing but hope he's improving daily.

The yearly Daily Vacation Bible School is in full swing at the Adventist Church in South Woodstock. They always have a large turnout. There's over 100 attending this year. Some of those helping from this area are: Darlene Hadley, Gina Poland, Joan Cannuli, Cleo Ryerson, Maudelice Hadley, Sarah Hart. I'm sure there are others, too; the children all seem to enjoy this yearly event.

Sarah and Jessie Hart will be camping next week with their grandparents. Earl and Pat Hart at Harpswell.

Some enjoying birthdays recently: Yogi Dillingham, Phelps Poland, Burnie Rice.

I locked my car keys in the trunk of my car this morning at Shop 'n Save in Oxford. I called home and my husband Richard, who happened to be home, came to my rescue. I had ice cream plus other frozen foods I had just purchased so was glad he came quickly. I have never done this before and was very disgusted with myself.

Lloyd Poland has been laid up with pulled ligaments in his arm.

Barbara Cash underwent another surgery this week at a Portland hospital. Barbara has had a lot of surgery recently and I hope she will find a lot of improvement after this last one. Good luck, Barbara.

Sympathy goes out to Floyd Stevens and family. Floyd lost his father and sister within two days of each other.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that the society values your support and interest. The museum is full of exhibits for you to enjoy. Larry has been reading some English literature. The society observes that Edith Wharton once told how a tale often develops: "I had the story, bit by bit, from various people, and, as generally happens in such cases, each time it was a different story." The society helps us learn about the past and our community.

A black cat has been on our deck for the last week. It is not a very old cat and I cannot keep him, as I have two other cats. I have called several neighbors to no avail. He looks very healthy and can roll over when asked. Someone is probably wondering where he is. Please give me a call at 674-2102 if you know anything about this cat.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that if at first you do succeed, don't take any more chances."

The annual business meeting of the Songo Cemetery Association was held recently at the Kimball-Salway home with eight members present. All officers were re-elected and other routine business taken care of.

Our deepest sympathy to the family of Patty Noll. She was an across-the-pond neighbor several years ago. Mrs. Kassi Gatchell and Kaitly from Portland visited her parents, Norma and Dave Salway, overnight one day last week.

Matthew Eichel of Grapevine, Texas, has been enjoying a two-week visit with his grandparents and great-grandmother at the Wentzell cottage.

Other visitors at the Wentzell cottage have been Roni and Lang

Strout and daughters Courtney and Abbie from Waterboro; Clay Adams and daughter Sherry from Florida; Joe and Carol Turple and grandson Kenneth from Virginia; Debbie and Ray Eichel from Missouri; and Roy and Mary Ellen Newton from Gorham, N.H.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bancroft were overnight visitors of her daughter and husband at their camp in Eustis on Tuesday.

I went to Norway on Saturday and Rumbord on Monday. I drove the East Bethel Road to Rumbord Point due to repaving of a part of Route 2 from Bethel to Newry Corner.

Mrs. Kathy McCluskey and daughter Brianna from Sumner were visitors of Mrs. Norma Salway on Tuesday and enjoyed a picnic lunch near the garden.

There have been showers and thunder showers nearly every day or night. One of the heaviest of the season occurred Tuesday evening.

Alder River Grange 145 will hold a regular meeting on Aug. 12 at the Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Jean Taber and Marna McGinniss have cleared the stop sign on the East Bethel Road at Locke Mills and planted flowers there.

Jim Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kimball, married Vicki Flanders on July 23 in North Waterford.

Mr. and Mrs. Andre Bernier attended the Kimball wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pelletier of Manchester, N.H. attended the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kimball.

Elsie Grant of Maryland and Alice Grant of Cape Elizabeth visited Leslie Noyes and Nina Mollicone from July 31 to Aug. 6.

Carol Harddenbrook of Biddeford visited Florence Hastings on Aug. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Andrews of Fryeburg visited Florence Hastings on Aug. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Hastings and Florence Hastings attended the wedding of John Hastings in Fryeburg on July 30.

Arlene Harrington made a grand tour of New Hampshire from July 28 to 31. She enjoyed the trip and saw a lot of things.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Conroy of Auburn visited at the Bartlett Homestead on Aug. 3.

I hope everyone can survive the muggies.

High Street

West Paris

By RUSSELL YATES

Howdy, folks. Another week has passed and once again it is time for news to be sent in. My news is pretty much the same each week, with a minor change now and then.

Last Monday, while Peggy was doing her card work at LaVerdiere's I worked in the garden in the forenoon and again in the evening. It gets too hot and humid for me to be out in the sun some days, so then I have to seek some shady place. I lead a very fascinating life, digging weeds and fighting bugs between going places.

Monday evening, Peggy and others from the committee that planned the Musical Supper met at Lettie Brooks' home to conclude just how well the Grange did.

Peggy took me down street on Wednesday forenoon, as I had an appointment with Dr. Ware and also wanted to go to the bank. Peggy did other errands while I was at the doctor's. We came back home where we had lunch and then we went to Auburn to visit sister Viva and to do errands.

We felt that Viva knew us, and when her daughter Wynona and her two girls came in it was very evident that she knew them.

After doing errands at Wal-Mart and Jo-Ann Fabrics, we visited with Myrna and Whitey for awhile and had supper with them before leaving for home.

Thursday was a wet, rainy day, so we didn't do much outside. Peggy took me up to West Paris Town Office in the forenoon so that I could pay my taxes.

Sister Laura and her granddaughter Mandy Cobb came in the afternoon and stayed for supper. We discussed just what we would do at our next Grange meeting.

Another woodchuck showed up on Friday morning, as Peggy saw him just as she was about to leave for work. He disappeared under one of the outbuildings here, and I immediately set out to catch him, which I did about two hours later, so I don't have to worry about his eating up my garden. I then closed up some places where a woodchuck might get under one of the buildings, as I'd be just as happy if they'd stay at the neighbor's instead.

Myrna and Whitey came up in the afternoon so that Whitey could mow the lawn. They stayed for supper before returning to Auburn.

Early Saturday morning, I did some work in my little potato patch, rototilling and hilling my potatoes a little more.

We then decided to go to Western Auto in Norway to look at freezers and ended up buying one. It isn't as large as the old freezer that went bad on us, but we think that it will be large enough. They will be delivering it on Wednesday morning.

We got quite hard thundershowers Saturday evening, so Peggy was late leaving, but she attended the dance at Locke Mills just the same.

We worked around here in the forenoon on Sunday, and after having lunch we went to visit Loretta and Emerson Merrill, also their son Russell, in West Bethel. We enjoyed most of the afternoon visiting with them and then left for home. We called on the Richard Felts on our way home, as we wanted Richard to help us put on a skit at Grange on Monday evening. Richard was away, but we visited with Barbara and made our wants known.

The final meeting of the Robinson Reunion was held at Songo Pond on Sunday with 18 present.

Hope Lovejoy is selling blueberries at the Havenin's Farm for the blueberry season.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange on Aug. 13 with the Richard Felt Orchestra furnishing the music.

Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond will be having Gentlemen's Night on Aug. 15, with me in charge of getting officers and planning a program for the evening.

The Jackson-Silver Post will be hosting a Musical Supper at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills on Aug. 23. This will be very similar to the Musical Supper of July 19, with lots of music, a variety show, and dancing to music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. Come have a good time.

Parsons to head MCS board

At their annual meeting held last month, the board of directors of the Conservation Education Foundation of Maine, Inc., the nonprofit corporation that owns the Maine Conservation School, elected Bethel businessman Jeff Parsons as president. Parsons is well known throughout the state for his work as director of the Mahoosuc Mountain Center of Hurricane Outward Bound School, creator/owner with his wife Patti of Ta-Ka-Radi, and most recently operator of his new venture Bethel Outdoor Adventures, a family-oriented outfitting and guiding service.

He has served as a member of the MCS board of directors for five years and succeeds outgoing president Steve Wight, who will remain as vice president.

Other officers elected for the year were incumbent treasurer Nancy Cushman, a CPA with a Portland accounting firm and a Bryant Pond resident; and secretary Nancy Willard, a professor at USM who also resides in Bryant Pond. Willard replaces outgoing secretary Rep. Al Barth, who has served two three-year terms on the board.

Since losing its state funding for the position of executive director in the 1993 budget revisions, the school has worked hard to form partnerships with private sector individuals and corporations, and has greatly strengthened its ties with fish and game clubs and conservation commissions throughout the state. Evidence of the success of the efforts can be seen by anyone who visits the school or passes by the Lake Christopher waterfront by boat.

Enrollment is the highest in years, long-neglected maintenance is being accomplished, volunteer groups from garden clubs to the U.S. Army National Guard are donating time and materials to facilities repair, and the laughter of happy campers can be heard throughout the 110-acre property.

There are a few opportunities remaining for 10-14 year olds wishing to attend the school in the last weeks of the summer season. Anyone wishing information on these or any other aspect of the school is welcome to call 665-2068 during normal business hours.

OHHS '84 CLASS REUNION

The Oxford Hills High School class of 1984 will hold its 10th year class reunion on Saturday, Oct. 15, 7:30 p.m. to midnight, at Shawnee Peak (previously Pleasant Mountain).

The cost is $15 per person and a cash bar will be available. Checks should be made out to Jill Dettling (class vice president) and mailed to 105 Sussex Street, Phillipsburg, NJ 08865. No invitations will be mailed - class members are asked to pass the word.

TELSTAR 1984 REUNION

The Telstar High School Class of 1984 will hold its 10th-year reunion Saturday, Aug. 13, at Goldstreet in South Paris. The time is 6 p.m. for social hour followed by a banquet dinner at 7 p.m.

There will be live entertainment upstairs following dinner. The cost is $10.50 per person

TMS PARENT MEETING

There will be a meeting Wednesday, Aug. 10, for Telstar Middle School parents and teachers to discuss the upcoming school year.

The meeting will give parents a chance to meet new middle school principal Richard Blackman. The group may also discuss forming a parent/teacher middle school support group.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library.

LIBRARY SCIENCE PROGRAM

The first courses of a complete master of library science and information degree from the University of South Carolina will be offered this fall Educational Network of Maine (ITV).

With courses offered locally through the UMS Rumford/Mexico Center, and six extended sites in Western Maine, the masters in library science is a significant step in the availability of graduate degree programming.

It also offers students throughout Maine the first-ever opportunity to matriculate locally in a graduate program in library science. Courses for this and six other locally available college degrees from the University of Maine-Augusta are listed in the fall Educational Network course guide available from the Rumford/Mexico Center (UMS), 9 Brown Street, Mexico, ME 04257.

Those seeking to register for fall courses, or information about programs are encouraged to meet with an academic adviser at the center. Walk-ins are encouraged and appointments can be scheduled by calling 364-7882, or, from outside the Rumford area, 1-800-696-1103.

Fall classes for the masters of library science and information program will begin on Aug. 23, at the Rumford/Mexico Center and extended ITV sites in Bethel, Bangor, Farmington, Livermore Falls, Rangeley and South Paris. More than 50 other on-site and ITV classes at the center and extended sites begin the week of Sept. 5. Early registration is encouraged for all courses and programs.

"Between The Lines"

Dear Friends,
Was it really ten years ago that Katie and Roy bought BOOKS-N-THINGS? We looked very different then. Only fifteen feet wide. We nestled up to what was then Welby's. Our space and stock were limited.
Then in 1987 we moved down the sidewalk to our present location. Increasing our size by two thirds. Our moving day was a blast! With the help of friends and customers, we loaded up shopping carts borrowed from our neighbor Gordon Smith at Shop-N-Save, and within five hours we were set up in our new space!
Our most recent expansion in the spring of 1993 saw us knocking out our back wall to make our children's area even bigger and better.
As we enter our eleventh year of serving Western Maine, we say "Thanks" to all our customers who've helped us grow.

Middle Intervale Meeting House quilt show

A quilt show sponsored by the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society will be held on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Meeting House in Middle Intervale, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A wide variety of quilts, some more than a century old, will be featured. This eighth annual event will highlight the interior of this historic building, the oldest surviving religious structure in Bethel, dating from 1816.

Quilts are still being accepted for the show. Anyone with a quilt that he or she wishes to be considered for the show is urged to call James Lowe at 824-3107, Ginny Hutchins at 824-2954 or Millie Jackson at 824-2662.

A raffle of a "Round the World" quilt is also being held; the drawing will be held on the day of the quilt show. Tickets are available from various society members and will be sold during Sudbury Canada Days (Aug. 12-14).

WALKING THE WALK—Four local groups last week helped move a privy near a Grafton Notch State Park parking lot two miles further into the woods. Here Shaun Drakus and Dawson Walton of the Maine Conservation Corps lug sections of the building up the Speck Mountain trail. Other volunteers helping with the project were from Hurricane Island Outward Bound, the Maine Appalachian Trail Club and Mountain Valley Training in Rumford. The Maine Conservation Corps provided much of the manpower. The corps is an eight-week program designed to give young people jobs, while teaching them about the environment. The Maine Appalachian Trail Club hopes to build a lean-to on the site also. "The club's policy is to make all lean-tos at least two miles off the road," said club president Paul Johnson. "This will help prevent misuse and vandalism. Hopefully, the privy will be utilized by serious hikers." (Photo by Carol Savage)

Ask a Lawyer --

Who is responsible for my funeral when I die? I have five children, my mother is still living, and I have brothers and sisters. I need to know to whom to leave any money for the funeral.

Each person is responsible for his or her own funeral costs, so when you die your property (known as your estate) will be used to pay your funeral costs before what may be left is distributed to those whom you name in your will. The person who is responsible for making sure that your debts, including your funeral costs, get paid is called the "personal representative" of the estate. You name this person in your will. Most people name a spouse or an adult child. If you don't have a will, your heirs and creditors may apply to become personal representative.

You may also make arrangements directly with a funeral home ahead of time. With a "prepaid burial plan" you decide upon the services that you want, negotiate a price with the funeral home, and pay in advance. Alternatively, you could give the funeral home some funds for safekeeping in a "mortuary trust fund." The funeral home would deposit the money in a trust account in your name, to be used to offset your funeral expenses. If the funds are not sufficient, your estate would have to make up the difference. If there were a surplus, your estate would be refunded.

People often carry life insurance to cover funeral costs. It is best to make such a life insurance policy payable to your estate or to your estate's personal representative. If you die without owning any property from which your funeral expenses can be paid, Maine law provides that the general assistance program for the town in which you live should pay for your burial costs. However, the town need not pay for your burial if a relative (father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, child or grandchild) or other resource is available.

SALVATION ARMY CLOTHES RWANDAN REFUGEES

The International Salvation Army has collected, shipped and distributed more than 600 tons of clothing to Rwandan refugees at the Ngara camp in Tanzania, about 17 kilometers from the Rwandan border.

To date, almost half of Rwanda's pre-war population of eight million has fled its borders, seeking refuge in neighboring countries of Zaire and Tanzania.

Lt. Colonel Svend Bjornal, Development Services secretary, who recently visited the Ngara camp with a relief team from International Headquarters related, "I was appalled by what I saw. The only possessions that refugees own are the clothes they stand up in. And after the trauma of their experiences, and the wear and tear of the long and demanding walk, even those clothes are in very poor condition."

The colonel was alarmed by the number of children at Ngara. Forty percent of the refugees are children, many of whom have been orphaned.

Those who wish to make monetary contributions to the Rwandan relief effort may do so by mailing a check to The Salvation Army, P.O. Box 3647, Portland, ME 04104, marked "Rwandan Relief."

MAINE MOUNTAINEERS VISIT IRISH MOUNTAINS - Newry's representatives to the "World Convention of Newrys" spent a relaxing post-convention day hiking in the Mourne Mountains in County Down with their Irish hosts. Here Melinda Remington, Gail Sysko, and Jim Sysko learn about an ancient "boulley" site, where a family lived in the summer months to tend herds while valley fields were used to grow crops. Included in the group are Pat, Winifred, and Sara Dunbar, who recently vacationed in the Bethel area with Steve and Peggy Wight.

SMITH NAMED VFW ALL AMERICAN COMMANDER

Larry G. Smith of Bethel was recently named an All American Post Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

The honor will be presented to Smith at the VFW National Convention in Las Vegas by VFW Commander-in-Chief George R. Cramer.

"Commander Smith is one of only 112 VFW Post Commanders selected for All American status," Cramer said. "This honor is based on his outstanding achievement in membership growth, Buddy Poppy sales and other VFW programs that benefit veterans and their communities."

Smith, Commander of Post 11363, Department of Maine, will be honored at a luncheon ceremony on Sunday, Aug. 21 during the 95th VFW National Convention.

100TH INFANTRY SEARCH

The 100th Infantry Division Association is looking for men who served in the division from 1942 to 1945. The 100th "Century" Division fought in France and Germany in the Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace and Central European campaigns. Over 30,000 men served in the 100th, which trained at Fort Jackson, S.C., and Fort Bragg, N.C., before going overseas in 1944 to join the Seventh Army.

Former members, 5,400 of whom have already been found, can obtain more information by calling 215-699-9498 or writing William H. Young, Jr., 307 North Main Street, North Wales, PA 19454.

FULLER REUNION

The 48th reunion of descendants of Lysander and Phoebe Brooks Fuller was held Sunday, July 31, at Douglas and Wendy Warren's home in Andover on the East B Hill

Newry represented at World Convention of Newrys

Five local residents traveled to Newry, Northern Ireland, last week to take part in a "World Convention of Newrys," occasioned by the celebration of the 850th anniversary of the founding of that town.

Newry traces its history to the establishment of a monastery by Cistercian Monks in 1144, on the site where some 400 years before St. Patrick had planted a yew tree at the highest navigable point on the Clan Rye River in the northwestern corner of the island, now on the southern border of Northern Ireland.

Newry selectman Steve Wight led the group, which included selectman Jim Sysko; his wife, Gail; Mary Newcomb and Melinda Remington. Also attending the gala celebration and educational and cultural sharing were representatives from Newry, N.C., and Newry, Victoria, Australia, as well as officials from European Community Partner Towns of County Clair, Republic of Ireland, Corinth, Greece, and Powys, Wales. The group was treated to red-carpet receptions, cultural events, historical presentations, elegant dinners, tours of beautiful scenery, modern industry, and solid infrastructure, and, most especially, the warm friendship of the people of Northern Ireland.

The message given was that while Northern Ireland, like all places, has its troubling fringe elements, the vast majority of the people want to live useful lives as neighbors to each other and to the world. Several economic seminars pointed out that Northern Ireland is well suited to be the entry point for U.S. trade and travel to the new European Community.

The local contingent thoroughly enjoyed the experience, many feeling like returning family after previous visits to the area, Wight said. As a result of the convention, ties between Newry, Maine, and Newry, Ireland, have been strengthened and the Irish-American Youth Exchange between the two towns has been given assurance of permanence. In addition, relationships formed with community leaders in other parts of the world have already led to discussions of common challenges, such as recycling, solid waste, traffic flow, tourist promotion, recreation, park management, forest production, and agriculture.

It was evident to all in attendance that the Global Community has arrived. More than one discussion reminded convention participants that, with Dutch Dresser's Internet project coming on line soon, friends around the globe will be only a local phone call away, Wight said.

Field hockey, cross-country practice begin

Telstar High School's field hockey and cross-country teams are both scheduled to start practice Monday, Aug. 15, for the fall season.

Telstar's field hockey coaches want everybody interested in trying out for the team on the upper field at 5:30 p.m. Players should bring a water bottle and be ready to run, according to coach Gail Wight. The session should end at 7:30 p.m. Anyone with questions can call Wight after 6 p.m. at 824-2497.

Boys' and girls' cross-country practice will be held at the school Monday from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The New Locke Mountain Townhouses

Trail Elevation

Slopeside ♦ Quality Construction ♦ Panoramic Views

Ski to your door in the afternoon. Stoke up the fire -- and relax. Watch the sun set over the spectacular Mahoosuc mountain range... from the livingroom of your new Locke Mountain Townhouse.

It's more than a slopeside condo--it's a true four-season second home. Superior construction. The utmost in convenience and privacy. You'll enjoy the fully-equipped kitchen... the cathedral ceilings... the large master bedroom... the plush wall-to-wall carpeting... the tasteful and comfortable design.

Select from two spacious floor plans. In the 1800 square-foot configuration, you'll enjoy three large bedrooms, a loft, a daylight basement and the luxury of three full baths.

In the 1660 square-foot configuration, you'll relax with three full bedrooms and two and a half baths.

Each winter, you'll step out the door and into your skis. In the summer, you can hike, mountain bike, fish, golf and explore the cool green mountains. Locke Mountain Townhouses offer you four-season recreational opportunities. All this comfort, all this convenience is available now... at remarkably attractive prices. Compare--you won't find better value in slopeside second homes ANYWHERE in snow country.

Call Sunday River Realty today at (207) 824-3000 ext. 333, and learn how you can enjoy the best of Maine's Western Mountains... four wonderful seasons a year.

Offered Exclusively By Sunday River Realty

Obituaries

JERRY F. DUGAS

Jerry F. Dugas, 45, died unexpectedly Thursday, Aug. 4, 1994, at his residence in South Rumford. He was a lifelong resident of the area.

He was born in Rumford March 10, 1949, son of Charles F. and Betty (Warren) Dugas. He graduated from Stephens High School in Rumford, class of 1968, and had attended C.M.V.T.I. for two years.

He was a boiler operator at Boise Cascade Paper Co. in Rumford and had worked there for many years.

He was a member of Rumford Falls Aerie 1248, F.O.E. He had also served with the Maine National Guard for a time. He was an avid outdoorsman, especially hunting and skiing, and was a volunteer ski instructor at Sunday River in the Maine Handicapped Skiing program. He was married in Rumford on Sept. 5, 1970, to the former Joanne E. Dawson.

He is survived by his wife of South Rumford; two daughters, Stephanie and Dawn Marie, both of South Rumford; his parents of Rumford; two sisters, Mrs. Gregory (Cynthia) Freeman of Peru and Kelly Jo of Fishkill, N.Y.; two brothers, Thomas of Wappingers Falls, N.Y., and David of Beacon, N.Y.

Funeral services were held Sunday, Aug. 7, at the Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with the Rev. Ronald Ashworth officiating. Those who desire, please contribute

Birthday Remembrance
Eugene E. Buswell
Born August 10, 1920
passed away Dec. 24, 1988

There is a bridge of memories from here to heaven above, that keeps you close to us, it's called a bridge of love.

As time goes by without you, and the days turn into years; they hold a million memories and a thousand silent tears.

To us you were special what more is there to say, except to wish all our hearts that you were here today.

With all our love
Abbie,
your children & grandchildren to the Dugas Children Educational Fund, c/o Mrs. Joanne Dugas, R. 1, Box 1880, South Rumford, ME 04276 in his memory.

RICHARD J. BROWN

Richard J. Brown, 89, of Bethel, died Sunday, Aug. 7, 1994, at Market Square Health Care Center.

He was born in Albany on Aug. 29, 1904, the son of Herman and Mary (Kimball) Brown. He was educated in Albany and Bethel schools. He worked in local wood-working mills and also farmed produce gardens and eggs. Brown also worked on constructing the Gould Fieldhouse and the old covered bridge in Mayville. He shot his first deer at age 12 and his last at age 87, as well as being an avid fisherman. He was a member of the Big Buck Club of Maine. He married Doris Morton on June 27, 1929.

Besides his wife of 65 years, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Raymond (V. Sally) Bradley of Riverside, R.I.; Mrs. Phillip (Martha) Farrington of Oxford; Mrs. Charles (Dixie-Lea) Thayer of Bangor; a sister, Mrs. Albert (Beatrice) Grover of Bethel; two half sisters, Mrs. William (Evelyn) Damon of Yarmouth and Mrs. William (Martha) Von Zint of Bethel; two half brothers, Willard Brown of Norway and Clyde Brown of Michigan; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at the West Bethel Union Church. Interment will be at Riverside Cemetery. Those who wish may make memorial contributions to the West Bethel Union Church, or a charity of choice.

THADEUS S. JASTRZEBSKI

Thadeus S. Jastrzebski, 81, died Sunday, Aug. 7, 1994, at the Dixfield Health Care Center in Dixfield. He had resided at 84 Holbrook Road in Oxford, Mass., and had lived in the area the past 50 years.

He was born in Central Falls, R.I., on Oct. 10, 1912, and was the son of Joseph and Valerie (Kuschinski) Jastrzebski. He attended schools in Central Falls and Providence, R.I. He served with the U.S. Army from 1935 to 1938. He had been employed since 1947 by the Tupperware Corp. in Blackstone, R.I., until retirement in the late '70s as a mold designer and consultant for their many plants.

He was a communicant of St. Roch's Catholic Church. He was married in Worcester, Mass., on Sept. 5, 1942, to the late Dora Pepin, who died at Roxbury Pond on Nov. 18, 1993.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. George (Elaine) Byam; two sons, Eugene and David Jastrzebski; one brother, Eugene Jastrzebski of Chippenhook, R.I.; one step-brother, Alex Rutkowski of Pawtucket, R.I.; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Private services will be held at the family's convenience. Interment was in the Calvary Cemetery, Webster, Mass. Those who desire may contribute in his memory to the Dixfield Health Care Center Patient Fund, Weld Street, Dixfield, ME 04224.

ALLAN O. SWAN

Allan O. Swan, born Sept. 6, 1947, died unexpectedly Friday evening, Aug. 5, 1994 in Palmer, Alaska. He was formerly of East Bethel.

He was educated at Gould Academy and Western Michigan University and served 11 years in the U.S. Air Force. He was an avid sportsman and devoted family man. He was the eldest son of Henry and Joyce Swan of Rumford.

He is survived by his wife, the former Sylvia Kimball Swan; three children, Sherri, age 15, Tami, age 10, and Christopher, age 7; five brothers, Gary of Juneau, Alaska, Terry of Exeter, N.H., Ralph of Rumford, Jody of Seattle, Wash., Timothy of Mexico, and Robert of Anchorage, Alaska; maternal grandmother, Sally Spencer of Rumford.

Services are being held this week in Palmer, Alaska. In lieu of flowers donations may be sent to his widow and children: Sylvia Swan, P.O. Box 670166, Chugiak, Alaska, 94567.

BETHEL NAZARENE CHURCH

The closing program for Vacation Bible School at the Bethel Nazarene Church will be held Aug. 12, 7 to 8 p.m. Parents and friends are asked to come and share what the children have learned and made during the school. For transportation call the Rev. John Grant at 824-3766 or Chuck Mason at 836-3936.
